

SingTeach

Instructions for Contributors

SingTeach is an e-magazine for teachers published by the Office of Education Research at the National Institute of Education, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore. Articles are online and free-to-access at <https://singteach.nie.edu.sg/>

Contributions

In 2015, the Contributions section (<https://singteach.nie.edu.sg/tag/contributions/>) in SingTeach was launched as a platform for readers and authors with an interest in education and education research to share their stories and experiences.

Target Audience

The primary target audience of SingTeach are educators and school leaders in Singapore.

Guidelines

SingTeach accepts a wide range of topics pertaining to education such as education research, teaching and learning. This includes, and is not limited to, classroom practices, action research and classroom intervention programmes.

We welcome article submissions from educators, school leaders, policymakers, education researchers, school counsellors and parents.

Please bear in mind the following when crafting your contribution article(s):

- Article length should be kept between 600 and 800 words (exceptions may apply); and
- Writing style should be clear and easy to understand with research jargon (if any) clearly explained.

Submission

Please ensure the following during submission:

- Article must be in Word document.
- The author (or main author, if more than one) of the article is required to provide his/her signature in the Assignment of Copyright Form prior to publication.
- Any images included should be high-resolution (min. 300 dpi).

The publication of all contribution articles is subjected to the SingTeach editorial team's decision. If deemed suitable for readers, the article will also be edited for clarity and house style.

For submission of or enquiries on contribution article(s), please email: sgteach@nie.edu.sg